JoAnn Rupiper, SNHD, submitted a public comment through the Webex chat which read:
“For a master’s in public health degree, typically you choose an area of expertise, epidemiology, environmental health or health care administration. Many doctors pick epi with the scientific focus on population health.”

Victoria Harding, SNHD and SEIU, remarked the position was not posted internally. She took steps to investigate how to apply for the position. She expressed concern about losing internal candidates as they may not know to how to go through the process. She cautioned about narrowing down to five candidates from an initial list of twenty-one. The skills of the other candidates are not known, and she commented SNHD is not a typical Health District. She requested the Board be open and added the district is going into bargaining, and when the new DHO onboards bargaining for the contract will begin. She added it’s an uncertain time for employees. There will be new agendas, new ideas, with major changes and there’s also a pandemic. The District’s financial situation is uncertain too.

Seeing no one further, Chair Black closed public comment.
